Coleman Council Discuss TV

A community television antennae system was one of the main items discussed at the town council meeting in Coleman this week.

Mayor Frank Aboussay reported that several firms were interested in servicing the district and various prices had been offered.

It was decided that Funnell and Sons, who approached council last month on the installation of such a system be contacted with a view to starting negotiations for a fairer price for the hook-up and rental.

Mayor Aboussay also reported that a number of local citizens were under the impression they would be obligated to hook onto the system and discard their own antennae, when the community system was installed.

Mayor Aboussay pointed out that this was not so and persons did not have to use the service. He also indicated that Funnell was not interested in selling television sets as they had suggested that this be done by local merchants. He also added that Funnell did not want a franchise on the Pass area for installing a Community Antenna system.

Interested parties will be contacted by the council to settle the matter and get work started on the system.

Welfare Cases

Rev. Rod McAnley of the Coleman United Church, was present and after discussing several relief and welfare cases in town in his capacity as welfare officer brought up the matter of transients stopping off in Coleman and visiting the local churches with a view to obtaining meals and lodging for the night.

Mr. McAnley advised that the churches were experiencing a difficult time handling many cases and as a result, The Salvation Army at Coleman is equipping the basement of the S. A. Hall with a view to setting up beds for transients.

Chief of Police Ed Corson was of the opinion that with Coleman being the last town in Alberta, that this procedure would tend to make Coleman a stop-over for vagrants and transients learning that free meals and lodging were to be had here.

A lengthy discussion by council on the subject finally wound up with council agreeing to make a donation to each of the four Coleman churches to be used in their Christian welfare work.

Fire Chief Resigns

The resignation of fire chief John Kinnear was received by council and tabled until next meeting. Mr. Kinnear who is also town foreman, advised with his resignation that his duties as foreman took up most of his time.

It was announced that work would soon start on widening the rock cut on Highway 3 at the east end of Coleman, used daily as a pedestrian walk by local citizens living east of the cut. The south side of the cut will be widened by some 15 feet and a walk will be built parallel to the road. The steep slope of the cut will also be graded down to prevent rocks from falling off of the forty foot high walls.

Jim Cousins is Dean of Lethbridge Junior College

Lethbridge Junior College was formerly opened Wednesday evening, with officials from the Department of Education and University of Alberta attending to inaugurate Alberta's newest Educational Institution. A very interesting point to us is that a former Coleman boy, Jim Cousins, is Dean of the College and Coleman people are duly proud of him.

The Canadian Junior Red Cross has 37 branches and 913 members in the Department of National Defence Schools in Europe.

The minutes were read and approved.

Final plans for the Christmas party were then discussed. This will be held on Monday, December 2nd at 6:30 in the Elks hall.

Balloons, novelties, etc., will be purchased to add to the gaiety. The local clergy will be invited to attend.

Those wishing to attend the banquet which will be catered by the Order of the Royal Purple are asked to get in touch with the secretary, Mrs. J. Kostelnik before November 25, so they will know how many to cater for.

The C. G. I. T. will make the favors for the tables.

The meeting decided to purchase a wreath to be placed on the Cenotaph on Remembrance Day by Mrs. N. Goulding.

A card of thanks will be sent to Mr. and Mrs. D. Young, who gave a donation for the Christmas party. It was also decided that anyone who was a member of the Old Age Pensioners and their husband or wife were not—they would be allowed to attend if they paid the cost of their dinner, which will be $1.00.

Mrs. Mysnek donated a ring which was raffled and won by Mr. J. Ferguson.

Mrs. M. Finistasky donated a cake which will be raffled at a future date.

Mrs. N. Goulding thanked the members for their donations. It was stated before the meeting adjourned that the next meeting would include the nomination of officers for 1958.

Following the business meeting time donated by the Canadian Legion and shown by R. Crippen were enjoyed by the members.

A delicious lunch served by the committee finished up a very enjoyable evening.

The award winners are Joseph Lukacs, formerly of Hungary, Edward Wiebert, of Barhead and William P. Truch of Coleman.

They will receive scholarships established this year by Calvin Consolidated Oil and Gas Company Limited, Canadian Fina Oil Limited and Western Leasolds Ltd.

Mr. Lukacs was born in Hungary on March 22, 1934 and took his elementary and high school education in that country.

In 1956 he completed two years in petroleum engineering at Sopron University in Hungary with an exceptionally high standing.

Mr. Lukacs fled from Hungary at the time of the uprisings and came to Canada, together with several members of the student body and 37 from Sopron's engineering faculty.

After a short stay in Eastern Canada, he came to Alberta last June. He was employed by

The Western Leasolds scholarship which he has won, will enable him to complete his third and fourth years at the University.

Mr. Wiebert, 23, winner of the Calvin Consolidated scholarship, was born in Barhead, where he received his elementary and high school education.

Mr. Truch, 19, winner of the Canadian Fina scholarship, was born in Coleman. He received his elementary and high school education at Coleman.

He is currently entering his first year in engineering at the University of Alberta. The four-year scholarship which he receives will lead to an undergraduate degree.

Prime Alberta beef for the Prime Minister of Canada" formed part of the unusual banquet proceedings which concluded the annual meeting of the Canadian Tourist Association in Ottawa, Oct. 25. Tourist representatives from each province presented Prime Minister Diefenbaker, an ardent outdoorsman, with a sample of fish for which that province is noted. Alberta's presentation, last on the program, deviated by drawing attention to the fact that this province holds a dominant position in the Canadian beef industry in addition to her fame for petroleum.

Hon. A. R. Patrick, Alberta Minister of Economic Affairs, and R. R. Moore, Deputy Minister, presented banquet guest speaker, Rt. Hon. J. G. Diefenbaker, with a 16 pound "oven ready, standing rib roast". Viewing the packaged prize prior to its shipment east are —

Harvey Marples, manager of the beef department of Swift Canadian Company's Edmonton plant which supplied the choice cut; Dan E. C. Campbell, director of Alberta Government Travel Bureau; R. R. Moore and John C. Peter, Swift's plant manager and company director.

Any person who is not on a team may also register and then will be placed on a team.

Registration fee was set at 50c. A schedule will be set up by the secretary and president so as to allow teams enough time to arrange the players to play on those weeks.

Mr. F. Berlin is president. Rudy Seymanek is vice-president, and Sparky Buhnik is secretary.

After another meeting held on Tuesday, November 5 six full teams were registered with one more week granted to allow any other teams to register, but they must be registered by next Tuesday, Nov. 12, with Mr. Berlin, as the first game will start on November 12 at 8 p.m. and proceed as per schedule.

A full four quarters will be played and an interesting, exciting and competitive sport is on its way.

He stated that he was glad his first little Canadian had been a girl.

New Industry For Frank

Mr. Brett Sine president of the Atlas Lumber Company in Calgary confuted rumors that the large lumber company is setting up in Frank.

They had leased a large section of land south of the Frank railway station and hold an option to buy.

John Kostyniuk will begin logging operations north of Coleman, as a sub-contractor for Atlas, immediately.

The lumber will be stock piled on the newly obtained land in Frank.

When questioned on the future plans of the Atlas Lumber Company in Frank, Mr. Sine stated that they are definitely going to build a planing mill at Frank in the spring and there is a good possibility that they will erect a small lumber outfit.

It goes without saying that the new industry in Frank will do much to improve the economic situation in this area, and Frank in particular.

Two members of the village council were in Calgary last week visiting Atlas Lumber and making arrangements for the new industry in Frank.

Claim to Have Seen The Satellite

Mr. and Mrs. S. Castalano and son, reported to The Journal that they are almost sure they sighted the Satellite in the sky at 6:30 last Friday evening.

The object seemed round in shape and of a very bright aluminum color and seemed to be slowly gliding through the air in the vicinity of Saddle Mountain. It seemed at times to revolve and then glide with ease through space until it gradually disappeared from sight.

Mrs. Castalano stated they were so astounded and dumbfounded that they never had the time to phone anyone before it had passed out of sight, for no doubt it was travelling at a terrific speed, too swift for the human eye to follow.

Several other parties phoned in to The Journal office claiming to have seen the Satellite at various times.

Hunting under way in James Bay area

Moose, Ont. (cp) — Hunters here for the wild waterfront season are finding ducks and geese in abundance. The season now is in full swing as the birds rally at Ontario's oldest seaport in preparation for migration to the south.

The blue goose, the big Canada goose and literally millions of ducks, nest north of here. Early in September they move south from James Bay, some to be shot in Greenland, in Norway, or the English marshes. Others fly to the southern States and still others take Canadian prairies famous for duck hunting.

Oldtimer creates fine ship models

Fortune, Nfld. (cp) — A Newfoundland octogenarian now residing in Boston still keeps his contact with the sea.

Joseph Power, native of Port au Port, Nfld., builds models of ships like those in which he sailed as long as 60 years ago. He makes occasional addresses on the life of Newfoundland fishermen in former years.

Friends here learned that Mr. Power's most difficult task is yet to come — construction of a model of Noah's Ark, based on Biblical descriptions of the ancient vessel.

He will start the job as soon as he has gleaned sufficient information about the structure of the craft that grounded on the top of Mount Ararat, after sailing on a sea created by 40 days and nights of rain.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills)

THE BIG SHOOT

A gusty Manitoba wind had stripped all the leaves from the valley except for one flaming torch or yellow in a huddle of poplars by the ravine far up at the north of the marsh.

"They come in over those poplars," Barney said. "At least, they did last night."

I looked, visualizing dark clouds of silver-bellied mallards streaking in at sunset. I went back to the truck and brought another two boxes of shells to tuck in the boat. Didn't want to be caught short on shells with thousands of mallards tumbling in.

"Maybe I'd better bring more shells, too," Fred said, and he too, trotted back to the truck. We went well armed, up the channel, thru the parchment yellow of the marsh edges.

"Let's go right down," I said (let right in deep.)

On our way, two canoes passed us. They came from the lodge, at the top of the marsh.

"Where are you going to shoot?" Fred called.

Eager, enthusiastic faces turned our way. "We're going right down," one called, "right to the bottom of the marsh!"

At the time, it didn't seem to strike any of us that we'd risen early in both camps to row three canoes, merely trading places with each other. For in our opinion, we were reaching out to Duckland; and they, I suppose, felt sure that for a good shoot they'd have to get as far from their camp as possible. No hunter ever had a camp within less than a mile of a flyway — it just wouldn't seem right.

I would like to say that the mallards came in over the flaming tops of the poplars like locusts backing out the sky; or, to make a canny story, write that the other boats had a good shoot fifty yards from our camp while we drew a blank for our three-mile row. But I'll do neither because neither would be quite the truth.

The real truth is that we all had fun. We hunted the hard way, went back to camp tired and happy, lying our ducks along the side of the shack and cooked a dinner of fried chicken fit for a king.

"What on earth do you see in these hunting trips?" the wives want to know. "You wade through mud and water, you get soaked in the rain, you paddle for miles . . . why?"

And we answer, with owlish wisdom, "You wouldn't understand." That's the truth, too, because we don't quite understand ourselves.

Nordegg May Be Dead, But Spirit Lives On

(Calgary Albertan)

Nordegg has been dead for two years, but it wasn't evident from the faces of some 300 former residents of the abandoned mining town, 60 miles west of Rocky Mountain House, who came from all over Alberta Saturday, to renew friendships at their second annual reunion at the Isle of Capri, owned by Louis Carliot, early Nordegg pioneer.

David Craig, active at 84, even came all the way from Fernie, B.C., to say that if Nordegg could be in any way reactivated he'd move back to the town in which he spent 40 years.

About 17 nationalities represented proclaimed Nordegg as a real meeting pot that never saw racial friction.

They were just one big family, even when the mine employees reached a peak of 900 personnel in 1923 and they stayed that way even when the mine personnel shrank to about 400 two years ago.

"We laughed together and cried together," said Mrs. Samia D'Amico Duncan, now of Calgary, who, together with her husband Robert, were the first native-born Nordegg persons to marry and rear a family in the mining town.

These qualities were recalled in four informal dinner addresses before the dance.

Speakers were Mrs. Margaret Armon of Calgary, long-term Nordegg teacher and daughter of the first mine manager; Lapito "Sonny" D'Amico of Calgary, former mine manager and now oil engineer; and Mrs. Lottie Smith of Edmonton, miner's wife.

Sgt. George Krans, retired RCMP constable, who spent five years in Nordegg, "It was the best place in the world to be stationed. I had less juvenile trouble than in any of my other nine stations."

Youngest person present, born in Nordegg, were 14-year-olds Margaret Pomman and Carol D'Amico of Calgary, and Robin Dunn, 10, who lived in Nordegg when his father was United Church pastor.

Reluctant to return home, out-of-town Nordeggers, continued their reunion in private homes.

Five-pin Bowling Started in Canada

An estimated 1,000,000 Canadian players are engaged in five-pin bowling as this truly native Canadian game gets into full swing on some 7,000 alleys across the country.

The new Encyclopedia Canadiana credits Thomas J. Ryan of the Toronto Bowling Club with creating the game in 1900 to satisfy the club's desire for a faster, less strenuous game than ten-pins. Neither duckpins nor candlepins had found favor with the club.

He made the pins smaller, cut their number in half, and substituted a smaller ball. The faster and lighter game was approved quickly and in 1910 the first five-pin league was organized.

Duckpins and candlepins enjoy regional popularity and the game of ten-pins has many thousands of enthusiastic players in Canada but their popularity does not approach that of five-pins.

The popularity of five-pins increased rapidly after rubber bands were placed around the wooden pins. The rubber deadened the force of the bowling ball's blow and made it easier for a player to make a strike.

The first recorded game having a score of over 400 was bowled in 1918 by Alfred Scrubb, a famous English long distance runner then living in Canada. In 1921 Bill Bromfield scored 450 in the first-known perfect game.

The Canadian Bowling Association was formed in 1926. It set specifications for alley lengths and widths; size, weight and kind of wood for pins; size of rubber band; size and weight of balls, and so forth.

Calgary Power Holds Competition

An announcement has been received from Calgary Power Ltd., Canadian Utilities Ltd. and Northland Utilities Ltd. regarding the winners of a weekly newspaper competition, sponsored by the three companies.

The basis of the competition was on the newspaper making the greatest contribution to the welfare and betterment of the community. Merit points were given on the basis of support to community endeavors, such as the Chamber of Commerce and its activities, community clubs and their activities, community enterprises such as community centres, community parks, winter employment "Do-it-now" campaigns, and so forth.

Each paper that entered the contest submitted a scrap book in which were pasted items appearing in the paper which tended to improve the community. The editors were also asked to submit a full front page and editorial page. The period of the competition was from January 1, 1957, to May 31.

Here is a list of the winners in each of the classifications: over 2,000 circulation

First prize—Peace River Record Gazette.

Second prize—Lacombe Globe.

1,000 to 2,000 circulation

First prize—Brooks Bulletin.

Second prize—St. Paul Journal.

Third prize—Ponoka Herald.

under 1,000 circulation

First prize—Bonnyville Tribune.

Second prize—Charlton Local Press.

Third prize—Provost News.

The competition revealed one thing, that is, the great improvement in the production of weekly newspapers which has been evident over the past few years. The papers were very good and the judges had a difficult time in making the awards.

The whole purpose of the competition was to help strengthen the place of the weekly newspaper in the communities they serve. It was the opinion of the judges that Alberta communities are being well served by their weekly newspapers and without exception the publishers and editors give great support to community activities.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Some time ago Mr. Diefenbaker asked me to keep him informed on matters concerning the Macleod Riding. Since we are all working together on a common cause, I am sending this progress report on continuity developments for your information.

Many and varied problems of people within the constituency have been brought to the attention of the appropriate departments at Ottawa, and I am happy to report that these matters have received prompt attention.

Two Orders-in-Council have been passed to open markets for Alberta coal. Two thousand tons were shipped from the Crows Nest Pass to Japan during August for testing purposes. On September 27 an Order-in-Council was passed, permitting a subvention up to $4.00 per ton on Alberta coal shipped for commercial and industrial purposes to northern and Western Ontario.

Farm legislation is now being brought down in the House of Commons, and the additional payment in old age pensions has been accomplished.

Mr. Diefenbaker has recently remarked that a general election will not be too long delayed. This suggests the problem of organization throughout the Macleod Riding.

The provincial organizer for the party is anxious that the people in every district form a district P. C. association.

There are 64 districts or post offices in the riding. Several districts might federate into an area organization, if conditions warrant. A grass-roots organization usually gets started by a few interested district people getting together and forming an interim committee. A general meeting is then called by this interim committee to which every voter is invited.

A slate of officers is elected and this organization then takes charge of organizing the campaign in four or five polls. The constituency executive is largely on a district representative basis. One interim committee has already been established and expects to have the district organization set up before the end of November.

The provincial organizer has asked me to do what I can to help with this work. Mr. R. C. Fraser, president of the association, and other members of the executive also will be glad to work with you.

If I can be of assistance at your meetings, or by obtaining outside speakers, please do not hesitate to get in touch with me. In any event, keep me informed on your progress.

Yours very truly,

LAWRENCE E. KINDT

P.S.—The Annual Meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association for the province of Alberta will be held in the Palliser Hotel, Calgary, on November 28, 29 and 30, and you are cordially invited to attend. I shall look forward to seeing you there.

SPORTSMEN

If you wish to bring your trophies home, remember this:

1—Don't overload the boat. Allow one person for seat and consider the weight of your gear.

2—Canoes are marvellous craft when handled properly. But no one should consider himself an expert after a few outings on a peaceful lake. Play safe—use a bigger boat.

3—A life belt or an air cushion for each person is a MUST. You should wear the safety belt but, if you can't attach it or the air cushion to your own belt or other piece of equipment with a string about three feet long.

4—Choose your craft to suit the type of sport you intend to practice. Your equipment may save your life, there is how to use it:

1—Take off your rubber boots. Empty them and plunge them upside down in order to keep as much air as possible inside. Put the sole of the boots under each arm. This will keep you afloat.

2—An empty pail or any container plunged upside down, will keep you afloat.

3—A wooden or inflated duck decoy under each arm will keep a punter afloat until rescue comes along.

4—If you are not an expert swimmer and you see someone in distress in the water, take off your trousers and make a knot at the end of each leg. Hold the pants each side of the belt and slap firmly in the water so you capture as much air as possible. These "inventor's" pants will serve as a buoy and will help you reach the victim and bring him to shore.

5—You can inflate your own shirt which will keep you above water. Patron the shirt at the collar, undo the second button, bring the opening to your mouth and blow air into it.

Don't leave the boat if it capsizes—hang on to it!

Tests in Cubling are mostly to teach you how to live properly. Knots are taught for times of emergency. Exercises are very important for health. It is important to know health rules, how to dress yourself with proper boots, shoes and clothing. Cub life is very helpful to make a person live the way he should.

R. KWASNIE, Secretary.

Hi, neighbour

Here are some handy tips on storing your tractor for the winter...

they will save you time and money next spring!

First, either drain the radiator and block completely, or fill with the correct amount of anti-freeze. If storing for very long periods, also drain the entire fuel system, fuel tank, settling cup, fuel lines, screens and carburetor. Remember, fuel left in the tractor for a long period of time may form harmful gum deposits.

Next, remove the spark plugs and squirt light engine oil into each cylinder. Oil the valves and valve mechanism, then turn the engine over a few times to distribute the oil. This prevents rust and corrosion internally,

Now, lubricate the tractor thoroughly to remove any old grease which may contain moisture, acids or other impurities. Wash and clean the dirt off the outside of the tractor... and paint over any bare spots to prevent rust. Make sure the battery is fully charged and stored in a warm, dry place. Check frequently and recharge about once every thirty days.

Last but not least, don't let your tractor stand in the open or be a roosting place for the chickens. If you can't put it in a machine shed, then cover the tractor with a tarpaulin.

"The Times Are Big With Tidings"

(Author's Name Below)

Hardly a day passes but we are informed of progress being made in our constant fight against disease. Research workers are always looking for new drugs, antibiotics and man made chemicals.

Each one is clinically tested against every possible ailment with the hope that a better way of treatment will be found. Millions of dollars are often spent to perfect a single new drug.

As soon as a new drug is released for safe use, we stock it in our prescription department. It is a remarkable achievement that the average charge of all the prescriptions dispensed is less than three dollars.
